about the

Fairfield County Community Foundation's Fund for Women and Girls

The Fund for Women and Girls was established in 1998 to make a difference in the lives of women and girls in Fairfield County.

When you help a woman improve her life, you also change the lives of her children and her extended family, her community and ultimately society for ongoing generations.

For ten years, the Fund has invested grants in local programs that help Fairfield County women move into safe, affordable housing and help girls cultivate the confidence and life skills to develop their voices and make healthy choices. The Fund is now investing in providing low-wage women who are supporting dependents with the tools, life skills and education to achieve economic security.

Keynote Speaker

Dina Habib Powell is the Managing Director and Global Head of the Office of Corporate Engagement at Goldman Sachs. She previously served as Assistant Secretary of State for Educational and Cultural Affairs, Deputy Undersecretary of State for Public Diplomacy and Public Affairs, and as Assistant to the President for Presidential Personnel, a senior staff position at the White House.

Goldman Sachs recently launched 10,000 Women, a global philanthropic initiative that will provide a business and management education to 10,000 women in developing countries around the world and in the United States.

As Zainab Salbi, founder and CEO of Women for Women International said, "We cannot talk about building sustainable economies, sustainable democracies and sustainable societies without having strong and empowered women. Strong women lead to strong nations. This makes investments in their education, economic opportunities and political participation vital elements to building a more peaceful and secure world."
